

LIVESTRONG Fertility Training for Healthcare Professionals: User Guide

The LIVESTRONG Fertility Training for Healthcare Professionals is an online training focused on issues related to cancer treatment and fertility. This interactive course is designed to engage healthcare professionals as they learn to effectively communicate with patients about fertility risks, concerns and options as a result of a cancer diagnosis or treatment. Additionally, the course provides tools and resources for organizations to establish a systematic approach to fertility at the institutional level.

Learning Objectives:

- Describe the main fertility concerns facing cancer patients.
- Identify when to address fertility issues with patients.
- Demonstrate effective communication skills when addressing fertility issues with patients.
- Recognize the importance of establishing a systematic approach to fertility issues at the learner's institution and receive an introduction to that systematic approach.

The fertility training features four modules and a downloadable toolkit. Note: These modules must be completed in order (1 – 4).

- Module 1: Fertility and Cancer – Learn about the issues that people diagnosed with cancer during their childbearing years may experience.
- Module 2: Risks and Options – Utilize LIVESTRONG's Fertility Risk and Family-Building Options tools to determine patients' risks and options related to cancer, its treatment and their fertility.
- Module 3: Discussing Fertility – Practice having conversations with patients about fertility risks and family-planning options in an interactive simulation.
- Module 4: The Systematic Approach – Access resources and supporting material to implement a systematic approach to cancer and fertility in your institution.
- LIVESTRONG Fertility Recommended Practices Toolkit - Downloadable toolkit to support the implementation of a systematic approach to fertility and cancer
